What is the Apprenticeships Forum?

The Apprenticeships Forum is the perfect environment to deliver a clear message in an open and transparent manner, enabling your organisation to meet its party conference public affairs and communications objectives.

The Forum is a collaborative movement raising awareness of the positive impact apprenticeships have in the UK. The forum will consider regulatory issues, as well as what the parties can do to support UK apprenticeship programmes. Targeted at those with an interest in skills, education and apprenticeships policy, the Forum provides a vehicle for you to build relationships with an array of policy influencers at Conference.

As a member of the Apprenticeships Forum you will

- engage with key Parliamentarians and industry experts from across the skills and apprenticeships sector
- secure your own dedicated time for photos with the speaker(s)
- put forward your question in the 'In Conversation' event
- display your collateral at the events and be seen to support the forum via branding before and during the event

If you're looking for a presence at Party Conference, there's still time to partner with us on our Apprenticeships Forum, to find out more please download a media pack by completing the below form:
